A little liquor took a long walk.

This government is always just disturbing a battleship, or bucking one.

The Colonel has gone far enough with his campaign to call Tatts campaign "unsuccessful." Pretty good start for the Colonel, and mild considering who he is.

RECEIPTS OF A BACHELOR.
From the New York Press

Ide, and the world with you.
Shut and get half one back;
grown and get back 100.

Wine will be chiefly funny to others who are hitting the same bottle.

It is easy enough to teach an old dog new tricks if they're bad ones.
A good fellow about when time comes to your nose to talk politics is they can drop the weather.

PROVERBS.
We got them various against evil men, neither desire to be with them.
For their heart stinketh destruction and their lips talk of mischief.

Through wisdom is an house built; and by understanding it is established. And by knowledge shall the chambers be filled with all precious and pleasant riches.

A wise man is strong; yea, a man of knowledge increaseth strength.
For by wise counsel thou shalt make thy way: in multitude of counsel there is safety.

Wisdom is too high for a fool;
he openeth not his mouth in the gate. He that doeth this will be called a mischievous person.

HE HAD AN AW-FUL TEMPER.
"His had an awful temper." That is the story of Mrs. Shlomo Allen, wife of one of the men who shot up the Virginia coast officials. She further states that he was a kind husband. She says, "I have admired where Shlomo went when he left me Thursday. I only wish I did. I wish there never had been a gun made. I left our home the night this awful thing happened and my husband was still there as I kissed him good-bye. He told me to do everything I could for our two little children and he kind to his dog and cat."

A pitiful story, this, of a man with a bad temper. Probably he didn't have taught proper restraint.
When one finds himself with such a temper, he should begin training early.

GREAT FEATURE.
One of the biggest news items the Dothan Eagle has published the other day was one regarding Aldine Chamberlain saying he was going to vote for Wilson. He featured this item as if it had been one of the most important things ever happened and published Mr. Chamberlain's picture.

As an expression on his face that he was ready for the st, it came.

And why Hon. Journal should be reviewing unknown citizens of the country is more than can be said. The country can see, since much doesn't depend upon what visual and comparatively no citizens think about the mat-

Adding further the article interest the anything information that Aldine Chamberlain is a member to city council from the ninth
d. Glad to make his acquit-

No have time or ten city council this thing the Journal is working amount, to which we shall interview some of our own correspond-

GOOD ROAD WORK.
There is a streak of road leading from Dothan to Tallas that I read it as built before the rain and there was a place in it that I had which the caption of one little below and where the water was a wide enough to take care of the road that led to it.

There are many places where the water flowed over the graded road for some distance and left it in partially as good shape as it was before the rain.

You had wagon hauling a ton of grain in two mules, every day, an about for the good work done on that road they couldn't have pulled five sacks.

This only goes to show what well-deserved energy does in road building. This piece of road can be kept in excellent shape by being dragged occasionally.

No one hasn't seen that piece of road can imagine how well it stood the rain. There are other sections of road built under the direction of the highway commission that stood practically as good, but for the waterway places. They still have to be widened to stand such a rain.

but such a rain doesn't come once in a quarter of a century.

People who are looking on the work the commission has done should travel over Houston county.
Go over the road, formerly patched, and then over the roads they built. That is argument within itself.

You can read many tales about government aid in good roads building, and state aid, but we will never get enough to do any good. If Houston county wants good roads Houston county is going to have to build them and pay for them. If this government doesn't pay for them the others will. You can depend upon that. If we want to go down in our pockets and build them now, we can do it, in some hands, but if we get the roads this county will do it. Keep that in mind.

THE INFLUENCE OF CAFFEIN.
H. L. Hollingsworth, professor of psychology at Columbia University, has recently published a summary of an extended investigation on the influence of caffeine on mental and motor efficiency. The experiments were carried on a special equipped laboratory with the aid of six assistants and sixteen subjects at both sexes. The most rigorous scientific method and procedure were employed throughout the investigation the full details of which will appear in complete report. The tests performed included motor efficiency measured by steadiness, coordinated movements, typewriting, etc., and mental efficiency measured by speed and accuracy of calculations, discriminations, and other mental processes. In the test for steadiness, doses from 1 to 1 grams of caffeine produced a slight nervousness and apparent mild, several hours after the dose. A dose of 1 gram produced a marked unsteadiness which was greatest after three or four hours. The effect of caffeine was that of a typical stimulant manifested by a decided increase in the speed and accuracy of the movement.
In the combination tests, of which typewriting is one, caffeine el-ebrate in doses of from 1 grain to 3 grains produced stimulation and increase of speed while larger doses produced retardation.

In the calculation tests, as well as in the other tests of mental processes, all subjects showed a pronounced stimulation following caffein. The stimulation amounted to from 10 to 20 per cent. of the initial performance. No evidence of any secondary depression was discovered. Instead, the morning following the experiment showed without exception a clear improvement over the work of the morning preceding the experiment.

As to the effect on muscular efficiency, The Journal of the American Medical Association says that the conclusion seems to be that caffein excites the muscles to contract more vigorously without producing a secondary depression, so that the total total of muscular work which can be done by a man under rating is greater than that which can be done without it.

It is gratifying to have the effects of a drug like caffeine on the human

Proof of Elephant's Regency.
Elephants are always quoted as being the most sagacious of animals.
A story comes from Bombay, India, of a man who saved the life of an artilleryman recently. The man was seated on the tumb of one of the guns, and fell off almost under the blind wheel. The elephant was just behind the gun and saw the danger the man was in. He lifted the wheel with his trunk, and kept it held up until the carriage had passed quite clear of the man. The act was witnessed by an officer of the artillery.

Men That Do Women's Work.
Among some of the American Indian tribes of the southwestern United States, says a writer in Wide World Magazine, there is a curious custom of men occasionally assuming the work of women as a life occupation.
This, when it occurs, is voluntarily undertaken, and seems to be due to a preference for feminine labors, the man sinking his identity as far as possible by assuming woman's garb.

Rich Find of Old Silver Coins.
More than 2,000 silver coins have been found in a field near Ribe, the oldest town in the west coast of Ju-land, in Denmark. The coins are of the "short-crown" type, issued in England under Henry II., Richard I., John, and Henry III., but always bearing the name of Henry, and chiefly of the mints of London, Canterbury and Winchester.

Reptiles That Have Long Life.
Some of the sacred crocodiles of India are said to be over a hundred, and vast estimates have been made of the ages of the giant tortoises of Madagascar. Certainly there was (ill rethe garden of the Governor of Cape Town which came there eighty years ago, and was believed to be 150 when it arrived.

HINTS AND ADVICE ON ALL KINDS OF SOCIAL FORMS

Mrs. Merri. Most Noted Authority on Such Subjects. Also Furnishes Helping Ideas for Varieties of Home Entertainments

I want you advice, and hope I don't ask too many questions at once. Will you suggest a buffet supper for a simple home wedding?
Does the bridegroom furnish the flowers for the bride and her maid? What floral decorations and what flowers for the bride's bouquet would you suggest for a February wedding?
Is it the proper and necessary thing to make a gift to the bride and to the bridesmaid also if they are relatives? And for the groom to present the best man with some gift? What would you suggest as being appropriate?
In a black suit white vest white shirt and tie a conventional dress for an afternoon wedding—Pat.

For a winter buffet supper have developed or creamed oysters in pasties, chicken salad cold turkey coffee olives salad nuts ice cream cake breads. The bridegroom presents the bride and her attendants with their flowers. In large cities most of the spring flowers like hyacinths tulips and jonquills are obtainable in February roses are always lovely with carnations which are acceptable and beautiful at all seasons.
It is quite customary to present the bridesmaid and bridesmaid with some token usually a pin or something for personal adornment. The men of the party must always have scarf pins or cuff links besides ties and gloves.

Questions From "A. M."
Would you please tell me what would be a proper gift to give to a girl friend whom I have been keeping company with for awhile, an old grad from the public school this year is it proper to give a present when graduating from public schools?
Do you think a boy eighteen years old and a girl seventeen years old would be too young to keep steady company and go to a show at entertainment once in a while if her parents don't object? Do you think we could be too young to attend private dances at this age—A. M.

It has become quite the custom to show gifts up gradually and I would suggest a new watch, a card case a box of candy pretty put up. I think that young people you are are too young to go with such other steadily for is not fair to either of you. See a lot of other girls and boys and be as friends with all. We cannot help being our preferences but it is just what we want to give them decidedly early in life. Pick the girl out personally.

Birthday Party for Ten Year Old
Wish to give my little girl who is ten years old the gift of a birthday party. The guests numbered fifteen young people from seven to twelve years it would you suggest for refreshments, games prizes, favors etc. not wish for anything elaborate would like something different to answer in the Sunday paper. Thank you—Anxious.

Refreshments you must have tea or coffee it would not be a party a big frosted cake with ten candles and an orange. At the of ten girls over dress dolls and of a most successful party the girls dressed in dollies three were offered for the best. No hour was allotted to the task of better paper and a box of excellent pieces or cups and saucers. Canning little baskets be given for favors.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

Shame on Him

Why are you weeping, Mrs. Cuttle?

My husband is so selfish.

Why? I always supposed he was such a generous man.

No you have been deceived. He is the very personification of selfishness.

Dear me! I'm so sorry. What has he done?

He told me this morning that he would give me one-third of his income to run the house with and then proposed that each of us should have one of the other two-thirds for personal use.

The Truth of It

"Who is the man who just sneaked away when he saw us?" asked the newly-wedded shade.

"That repulsive old habitant of the crystal globe is Diogenes. He always avoids me."

And who are you?

Oh I'm just an unknown contented porary of his but I have positive proof that he would the lantern with which he went hunting for an honest man.—Athol Standard and Times

Among the Accidents

Amateur Editor—That's odd. I can't find any account of my sinking at the swimming pool last evening.

The Friend—Where did you look for it?

Amateur Editor—Among the mutual notes of courtesy.

The Friend—It might be in the paper after all. Why not try in some other department?

Why She Believed Him

First Hobo—Yes I told that lady that I was one a senator. She a really believed it.

Second Hobo—Great Hobo. In what way did you resemble a senator?

First Hobo—Oh! I told her two or three after dinner stories. They were so stale she said I must be a senator.

For Example

R. C. and I went to the city and found the pictures in the state house.

It is a great shame that a man in the highest position should be so stupid.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

The girl who never has had a sweetheart or does not care to do so with a girl at this age do you think it is right to call her old maid? She thinks it looks only like to flirt and have regular sweethearts at the age of seventeen.

In your opinion a stenographer is a desirable position for a girl?

Will it be more than a large hat or small ones?—E. C. P.

I think it is most unkind and rude to make fun or hurt any one's feelings and a girl in by no means an old maid. The position of stenographer is often a very desirable one. I wish large and small hats were worn on which occasion it is to be worn.

A woman in this condition is not to be along without judgment.

Some women seem to think that a picture of a face should go with a picture of a body.

It takes a clever man to fool him self into believing that he is content.

When a married woman is well dressed it is a sign that her husband is well to do.

And many a lonely girl's popularity with the male contingent is due to the fact that she has a rich father.

No matter how perfectly an artificial eye may be it is an unsightly thing.

This is a waste of time. If your name is in the list of also rank you are doing fairly well.

It takes nerve to enable a man to achieve success—and a lot more to enable him to explain satisfactorily why he didn't.

When his sacred majesty wants anything done that he is inclined to do himself he turns the job over to a by-product.—Chicago News

FUNNY FACES MADE OF PAPER

Day Way for Young Artist to Draw Grotesque Pictures—Many Amusing Results Are Obtained

Here is an easy way for young artists to draw funny and grotesque pictures. Crumple a piece of paper in your hand and place it on a sheet of paper so that a sharply outlined shadow will be cast either from the top light or a candle placed on the table alongside.

Trace the outline on the paper and then try to make a human face out of the pencil marks. Many amusing results are thus obtained and other characters may easily be made either

PASTIME OF ONE SYLLABLE

Game to Be Conducted Properly Requires That Company Be Seated in Circle—How Played

To conduct this game properly the company should be seated in a circle, lady and gentleman alternately. A lady begins by asking a question of her right hand neighbor to which he must reply by a word of ONE SYLLABLE or he incurs a forfeit for each extra syllable.

First Lady—Permit me sir to ask, you love music?

First Gent—Yes. (He then questions the next person on his right) I say wisdom what word do you think the best for making cheese?

Second Lady—Oink. (Please tell me, if you think himself the best and silliest man in the world.)

Second Gent—I tell me Mary do you like hot weather?

Third Lady—No. What kind of people do you think prosper most in the world?

Third Gent—Cobs. Have you much and in your composition?

Fourth Lady—None. Are you very comatose?

Fourth Gent—No. But which is the misdeed you or me?

Fifth Lady—I. What sort of a girl do you think I am?

Fifth Gent—Mad. Do you like red or white wine best?

Sixth Lady—Red. Now Edward are you fond of sugar plums?

Sixth Gent—Rather. This is a word of two syllables and oblige the speaker to a forfeit.

A forfeit is also incurred when a question or answer once made is repeated.

The game may be continued as long as the interest keeps up.

They Didn't Count

Small Harold was watching a regiment of soldiers marching by headed by a band. "Mamma said he what the use of all them soldi'rs that don't make music?"

What's the Use?

Sunday School Teacher—Scatter seeds of kindness.

Johnny Bubbs—What's the use? the chickens will get 'em.

MAKING MONEY WITH GAS

Up to Date Equipment Installed in New Melting House of British Mint

Four tons of gold will on an average be melted down each working day in the wonderful new melting house now being completed for service next year at the royal mint near the Tower of London.

The new melting house will be the most complete in the world. It is much larger than the existing one and is to contain ten furnaces as heated by gas. The present melting house has only four such furnaces. Gas furnaces alone are now used at the royal mint for the melting down of precious metals or the furnaces have been badly housed in the old list. No less than £3,000,000 worth of gold has been melted down by gas since the special furnaces were introduced.

Many experiments were carried out before gas was accepted as the best medium for the melting. In connection with the tests Mr. Rigg, the superintendent of the operative department paid a number of visits to factories in London and the country and made a tour in Canada and the United States with the object of obtaining evidence as to the value of gas as a fuel. At length a special type of furnace was designed by officials at the mint, and a gas burner made by Mr. S. N. Grayson of Manchester was adopted.

Ordinary gas is taken from the street main for the melting and mixed with air from a powerful blowing engine. It is found that by the use of gas the crucibles for the gold last longer than they did when coke was employed each crucible enduring eight or twelve under coke. In addition the cost is less having been reduced from 7d to 5d for each hundred weight of gold melted.—London Mail

BYRON HAD LITERARY AGENT

Author's Representative Not New Invention for the Torment of Publishers

Much has been written lately about literary agents as if they were a new invention of the Devil One for the torment of publishers. But in looking over Byron's letters the following one shows clearly enough that the first John Murray who published for Byron had to cope with authors' representatives just as the third and fourth John Murrays do today—and by the way, John Murray IV. who is an active and pleasing young man is taking more and more of the burden of his father's business. Here is Byron's letter to John:

"Can't accept your courteous offer. These matters must be arranged with Mr. Douglas Kincaid. He is my trustee and a man of honor. To him you can state all your mercantile reasons which you might not like to state to me personally such as heavy season, 'bad public', 'don't go off', 'hardship writes too much', 'won't take advice', 'declining popularity', 'reduction for the trade', 'make very little generally from his plagiarized edition. Foreign edition severe criticisms etc. With other sins and howls for an oration which I leave Douglas who is an orator to answer.

23d August 1821.

Apparently the song of the publisher to the author was exactly the same almost a century ago as it is today.

Does he come down late to breakfast?

Do the children go to school?

Are the windows clean?

Is the house in order?

TRAVELER'S OBSERVATIONS

We are in a new country, a new world.

There is nothing worse than a fall from a high place.

Don't put your collections before they are collected.

The altitude report in Algeria is broken every day.

Graft is the result of an ill-fated business on the part of those grafted.

After they get through with the rich some one ought to muck rake the cultured.

It isn't what wages a man receives it is what he is able to buy with what he receives.

If a woman stops to observe anything of interest along the street, either she is the comrade of a show window or she is the comrade of a street.

Will think she is trying to flirt with them.—Central Magazine

The Italian Soldier Under Fire

These Italian soldiers were a new experience to me. For sheer unadorned daring I have never seen anything to equal the behavior of the Italian soldier under fire and mark you heavy fire. They are as a whole a splendid body of men from the point of view of physique and discipline. Much more than this can be said however. The good spirits and earnestness of these men could only be spoken of in terms of highest praise. Chummy in the word I must use to describe the relationship and feeling existing between officers and men and under such conditions where each is so essential to the other a wiser policy can not be adopted.—Frank J. Magee in Metropolitan

Vary Ancient Sword

"Some of the Arabs have two-handed swords," says ex-Lieutenant Montague late with the Turks in Tripoli left behind by the crusaders. "But one never can be certain of anything in this world. After one of the British campaigns in Egypt an officer brought back as trophy such a formidable weapon which he had used to submit to the late Mr. Jack Layman head of the Wilkinson Sword company in Pall Mall saying that in his opinion the thing belonged to the first half of the eleventh century. No said Mr. Jack with a smile after a slight scrutiny of the blade it belongs to the second half of the nineteenth century. There's our trademark in the corner of the hilt."

English Women Intemperate

"Women now provide a disproportionately large part of the habitual drunkards," says the head constable of Liverpool England. "Thus during 1910 in the class of three or more convictions within twelve months there were 152 men and 184 women and in the class of six to sixty convictions (all told) there were 323 men and 277 women. For two years the black flag in Liverpool has consisted of a woman."
